A close-up photograph of a book's spine. The spine is made of a light brown, textured material, possibly leather or cloth, which is heavily worn and torn. A small, rectangular label is affixed to the spine, featuring the number '535' in a large, bold, black font, with the letters 'xp' in a smaller font below it. The right side of the image shows the dark blue, textured cover of the book, which appears to be made of a different material, possibly leather or a heavy cloth. The spine and cover are joined at a visible seam.
